TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Colorado was organized as a territory in February, 1861, and in August, 1876, was admitted to the Union as the thirty-eighth state. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 939,629, which represents an increase of 140,605, or 17.6 per cent, over the 1910 figure. During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent.

The following summary shows the population of Colorado from 1860 to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent of increase in each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

POPULATION OF COLORADO: 1860 TO 1920.

1860.....	1,34,277

<sup>1</sup> Population of area organized in 1861 as Colorado territory, but included in Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, and Utah territories in 1860.

Counties.—Colorado has 63 counties, of which 17 show decreases in population since 1910. (See Table 1.) The following changes have been made in the boundaries of the counties since 1910: Parts of Conejos and Costilla Counties were taken to form Alamosa County, part of Otero County was taken to form Crowley County, part of Routt County was taken to form Moffat County, part of Jefferson County was annexed to Gilpin County, parts of Montrose and San Miguel Counties were annexed to Ouray County, and part of Ouray County was annexed to Montrose County. Because of the formation of the three new counties it has been necessary, in preparing the maps on page 3, which show the rates of increase or decrease in total and rural population since 1910, to combine Alamosa, Conejos, and Costilla Counties, to combine Crowley and Otero Counties, and to combine Moffat and Routt Counties.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 103,658 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1920 is 9.1 (see Table 1), as against 7.7 in 1910 and 5.2 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The 63 counties of Colorado are made up of 1,213 primary divisions, comprising 1,207 election precincts, for which the population is presented so far as reported separately, and 6 cities. (See

POPULATION—COLORADO.

Table 2.) There are also 223 secondary divisions of the counties, comprising 35 cities and 188 towns. In a number of cases a city or other incorporated place comprises an entire precinct or two or more precincts or parts of two or more precincts. The city of Denver is coextensive with the county of the same name. Besides these primary and secondary divisions there is one Indian reservation, which, though independent of any county organization, is returned as a part of the county in which it is located.

Cities.—Colorado has 41 cities, of which Denver, with a population of 256,491, is the largest. Pueblo, with 43,050, and Colorado Springs, with 30,105, are the only other cities having more than 25,000 inhabitants. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for the 6 Colorado cities having 10,000 inhabitants or more in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during the preceding decade:

<sup>1</sup> Colorado City and Colorado Springs city consolidated since 1910; combined population, 33,411 in 1910; 23,999 in 1900; 12,928 in 1890; 4,573 in 1880.<sup>2</sup> Corrected figures. Exclusive of population (2,648) of certain territory outside the city limits. See footnote 1, Table 3.

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. Consequently the territory comprised within any one class of cities or that designated as urban or as rural does not remain fixed, because any given place may, through the growth or the decline of its population, pass from one class to another at successive censuses. The proportion of the population of Colorado living in places of 2,500 or more increased from 48.3 per cent in 1900 to 50.3 per cent in 1910, but decreased to 48.2 per cent in 1920, practically the same proportion as shown for 1900.

In computing the increase from 1890 to 1900 for certain counties, the population of Indian reservations in 1900 has been deducted from the total population of the county in order to make it comparable with the total for 1890, which does not include the population of Indian reservations. The population thus deducted from the several county totals was as follows: Archuleta, 10; La Plata, 480; Montezuma, 559.]
